

FOR HIKERS, WINE CONNOISSEURS AND HISTORIANS

The Chesa Grischuna is the Most Beautiful Stop on the Via Valtellina

The Via Valtellina is an age-old trail. In former days it was mostly used by the caravans of the "Säumers" carrying the wine from Valtellina to us in the north. Today we use the wonderful old paths simply for fun. A small bottle of Valtellina wine in your rucksack will make the journey even more pleasant.

*Beautiful prospects: Hiking with Valtellina
wine in your rucksack
and the Chesa Grischuna
as your paradise resort*

One segment of the Via Valtellina passes from Klosters through the gorge of the Schlappintobel to Schlappin (1658m above sea level) and up to a pass called Schlappiner Joch (2202m) where you will cross the frontier to Austria. You either return to Klosters or you walk down to Gargellen (1423m) and return to the Chesa Grischuna the following day.

Those who are enticed by the smell of the wine to be more adventurous can do the complete Via Valtellina route, a 5-day hiking tour. You can comfortably set off from the Chesa Grischuna to do either a segment of the route or a day's tour. We'll fill your rucksack with a map, a picnic and some wine from the Valtellina.
